Breaking THE MOLD

The class of 1992 has never been one to conform. We have never sat by and watched things happen. Instead, we made things happen. Tradition meant nothing to the class who "broke the mold" together and individually. Over the past four years, we struggled to prove our strong desire and ability to create change. We succeeded. One by one we overcame the smallest to the greatest obstacles.

► Someone is playing a dirty trick on best friends Deanne Forkey and Joni Cossaboom in Miss Reilly's world literature class.

▲Augie Calhoun is "checking out" someone in the senior lounge. Wouldn't you like to know who it is?

▲Dawn Pietrowski at her patrol post at the end of the math wing outside Mr. Phelon's room.

When we first entered the intimidating halls of Ludlow High School, we had no idea of the battles before us. Freshman year we were content to let other classes take the lead. By sophomore year, however, we began to realize that we could no longer remain in the shadow of past classes, for with age we recognized the need for action. With budget cuts threatening our education and future, we protested, unified in a school walk-out. We willingly accepted the punishment, knowing that our voices had been heard and would not soon be forgotten.

With renewed determination we found a new focus for our energy in the once "forbidden" overnight sophomore class trip. Again we set a precedent: members of the class of 1992 were allowed to cruise around the coast of Nova Scotia for three memorable days.

Junior year ended in a whirlwind of activity, and for the first time the seniors' excitement took on a new significance. We organized and proudly presented the seniors with the Junior/Senior Prom, "Wonderful Tonight." Emotionally, we participated in the Senior Assembly, raising our brightly lit candles as a symbol of tomorrow.

◀Deena Desrosiers uses the card catalog in the library to research her government term paper.

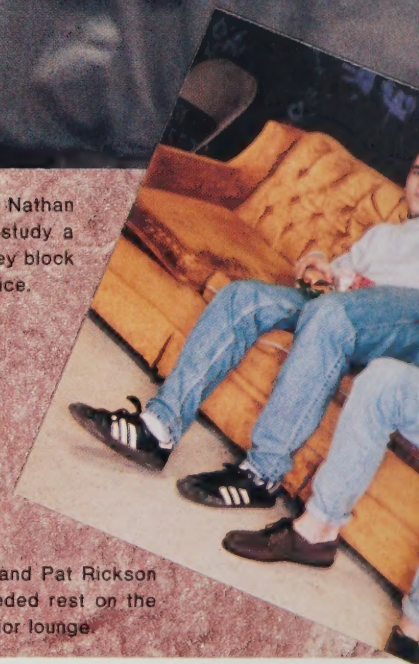

▲Chris Dynak yawns and wonders why the halls are so empty.

▲Denise Malvinni grins as Mr. Marino expounds on the subject of love in AP English.

►Kevin Bushey and Pat Rickson take a much needed rest on the couch in the senior lounge.

Class of 1992

Then suddenly, we were the seniors, faced with deadlines, decisions, and dwindling days. As seniors, we were to meet our last and greatest challenge as a class. We struggled for months to prove that we were responsible enough to handle what other classes could not. Once again, our fight ended in victory. The school committee reluctantly granted the senior class the opportunity to come to school late and leave school early as study halls permitted. The "senior privileges" were reinstated on first a trial and then a permanent basis.

The Senior Show, the prom, Class Day, and Senior Assembly had come and gone before we realized our high school years were soon to be only a memory. On June 4 we graduated side by side, knowing that after "Breaking the Mold," it was finally time to break free.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Six foreign exchange students joined Ludlow High School for the 1991-1992 school year.

Geraldine Chatelux of Lyon, France was rather shy at first, but soon began to feel more at ease with her surroundings. She described Ludlow High students as "smiley" and slowly began to take in the American culture, adjusting not only to a new language but also to "strange" foods. Geraldine's one wish was to visit New York City. "I have always dreamed of New York," she said. She was able to realize that dream on the French Club / Psychology field trip to see the Broadway production of Miss Saigon. Geraldine hopes to return to America, perhaps to pursue her college education.

Fabio Ambrosio came to America from Brazil and found making friends in Ludlow an easy thing to do. He, too, discovered many differences between his home country and America. "School is really different," he explained, adding that in Brazil students spend much less time actually in school while taking up to eleven classes at a time. Fabio, like other foreign exchange students, hopes to return and wishes someday to visit New York and Hawaii.

Alfonso Torres of Argentina became one of Ludlow High's most popular exchange students. Perhaps it is his charming good looks or his ability to become the center of everything that gives him so much attention. Either way, Alfonso has also discovered both good and bad aspects of American life, explaining his belief that many Americans are narrow-minded. "You know only about your own country, and that is it, like America is the world." Still, he said he has learned much from his experience here and has learned to appreciate his home and his family. "I was never a demonstrative person. I never told my parents 'I love you,' but now I say it."

Amparò Vives, Ludlow's energetic exchange student from Mallorca, Spain, brought with her enthusiasm and optimism. Entering Ludlow High as a junior, she found school to be one of the major differences between her home and America. "In Spain we study with books for hours." Her greatest hope is to travel to Disney World. She explained, "It has been my dream always." With her perpetual smile and bouncing curls, Amparo will be remembered as one of Ludlow's most vibrant students.

Francisco Garrido, also from Mallorca, Spain, became an avid member of the LHS ski team during his stay. "The team isn't all that good," he explained, "but we have fun." Xisco, as he is called, had a difficult time at first because of the language barrier; he found it hard to adjust to "American slang." His English improved greatly, and with his signature black curls and charming smile, he made a lot of friends. When he returns to his home country, he will attend college to pursue a career in architecture, then return to America.

Maria Marta Nicolau Costa, better known as Marta, arrived in America from Portugal, a fact that gave her an advantage over some of the other exchange students, for nearly half of Ludlow's population is of Portuguese descent. Still, she finds it difficult to communicate with teachers and students. "I feel alone, not knowing where to turn." She does see a difference between her teachers in Portugal and those at Ludlow High. Ludlow teachers "don't have as many students, so there is a friendship between them."

By coming to America, each of the exchange students was able to realize a dream, and in return, to give Ludlow students a chance to learn more about the world around them.

► The inseparable Alfonso and Xisco, who both speak Spanish, ham it up for the camera.

▲▲Fabio Ambrosio has enjoyed his life here as a Brazilian exchange student.

▲Geraldine Chatelux has found her life as a senior exchange student from France to be difficult, yet rewarding.

▲▲Marta Costa, a senior Portuguese exchange student, is sporting her usual smile as she walks the halls of LHS.

▲Argentinian exchange student Alfonso Torres has found that his time in Ludlow has made him appreciate his home and his family even more.

High School Evaluated

This year in March Ludlow High School was evaluated by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) to determine what kind of education and school experience it will provide to the students during the next ten years. Mrs. Libiszewski and Dr. Koscher chaired the self study in which all faculty members have participated for nearly two years. After the school's philosophy was developed, each learning area was carefully scrutinized as were media services, administration and faculty, school climate, curriculum and instruction, and community support and involvement.

The school's underclassmen will be the beneficiaries of the results of the evaluation. When the NEASC report is received in the fall of 1992, the school will begin to implement the suggestions which the visiting evaluators make. This year's juniors, sophomores, and freshmen will find Ludlow High School a better place in which to get an education once these changes are in place.

Our School Is Saved!

During the summer, members of Ludlow's community came together in an effort to help minimize the impact of budget cuts on Ludlow High School. These concerned citizens founded S.O.S. (Save Our Schools), an organization whose long term goal was "to allow every student the opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities and competitive high school sports," explained Mrs. Ellen Nepomuceno, mother of varsity soccer player Alica Nepomuceno, and one of the leaders of SOS.

The focus of the group, whose members include all sports booster clubs as well as concerned citizens, was to help raise money to fund extracurricular programs. However, S.O.S. did not have to raise as much money as it had originally thought because at a town meeting on September 19, 1991, available money was given to the schools to reinstate several teachers and programs. As Nepomuceno said, however, "We were very fortunate that the funds were provided by the town this year, but what will happen next year? We do not know. S.O.S. is trying to provide monies to keep sports alive in Ludlow."

Among the programs that S.O.S. sponsored in order to collect the needed money were a tag sale, a spaghetti dinner, a pancake breakfast held Columbus Day weekend, a "Meadow Muffin" contest, and a New Year's wrestling invitational tournament.

Overall, the public was very responsive to the efforts of the group, but some people had "mixed reactions," stated Nepomuceno. Some community members believed that because funds were provided by the town, there was no need for fundraisers. "Other people gave S.O.S. all of their time after work."

Ludlow High School's cheerleaders were especially active, showing their support by being present at and helping with all S.O.S. functions. Mrs. Nancy Boyle, the cheerleaders' advisor, said that the cheerleaders enjoyed working for the group. "They had fun. It allowed them the opportunity to be more social and to show their support through meth-ods other than cheering at the games." The cheerleaders while the held a carnival on October 27 taking place. # BOOSTER DAY

Voices echo. Bleachers shake with the steady vibration of stomping feet. "Seniors Rule! . . . Seniors Rule! . . ." The first class to enter the gym makes its presence and its superiority known to all that follow. It is met with equal determination. Finally all eyes and vocal chords are turned toward the incoming and inexperienced freshmen. The freshmen struggle to try to defend their name with pride, but it is three classes against one and any attempt is a weak attempt in comparison. This is an accurate description of the fun and festivities of Booster Day 1991.

What is supposed to be a little bit of healthy competition turns into a mad house every year. The screaming reaches a deafening decimal, and Mr. Cavallo stands impatiently with a look of annoyance trying to gain control. Then students receive the annual lecture of the true meaning of Booster Day. The cheerleaders that took the time to arrange the whole event perform for the crowd. One by one, the individual members of football, soccer, and cross country are introduced by class as cheerleaders place ribbons around their necks. Once again the bleachers shake, voices rise, and people are determined to make their own class look best. The walls are plastered with colorfully glittered posters, painted sheets, crepe paper, balloons, and even blinking lights. No one cares that it is a fire hazard. In a second all the time and effort spent preparing the material images of the class are destroyed as excitement mounts. Cheerleaders host screaming matches, but it is so loud that no one hears the winner announced. At about 2:00 Mr. Cavallo reminds everyone to support the teams and attend the next home game. Classes are then "orderly" dismissed, and students get ready to go home with ringing ears, confetti in their hair, and a splitting headache. It will be another year until the school is courageous enough to try this again.

▼Senior Mario Rodrigues roots on his fellow football team members as they are called up and given their medals.

CROSS COUNTRY

The boys' cross country team was dealt a near fatal blow before the season started. It was not from the competition, but from within, as the school committee imposed a one hundred dollar user fee. This cut down the field of twenty-seven individuals who had originally signed up to only six. But what a six! Soon everyone who watched these Lions run dubbed them "The Super Six."

Jeff Bunten, Paul Romaniak, Tom Widor, Billy Grassetti, Jason Dobson and Andy Dorval raced to a 6-8 record. On the hilly LHS home course Romaniak snapped the record for the LHS juniors and Widor set a new standard for the sophomores. On the championship course at Northfield Mountain, which Ludlow teams have run for the past eight years, Widor's time of 18:34 equaled the fourth best ever by a LHS runner with Grassetti's 19:23 placing him fourteenth on the LHS all time list.

Bunten earned the biggest prize of the fall season winning the award for the best sportsman from the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association.

BOYS' SOCCER

It is common knowledge that the Ludlow High School boys' soccer team is always a threat, especially to the schools with higher enrollments. The boys' 1991 soccer team making it to the Western Massachusetts Finals for the sixth consecutive year is proof enough for anyone. The boys deserve recognition for what they accomplished as individuals as well as a team. Ludlow placed three seniors, Andy Boyea, Augie Calheno, and Matt Cameron, on the "All-Western Mass" first team. Augie Calheno was further honored with "All-New England" status. Seniors Chris Cavallo and Joe Queiroga and Junior Joe Antonio did not go unnoticed either — they made the "All-Western Mass" second team. These individuals deserve credit for the hard work which got them such honors.

The team, with a record of 14-1-3, should also be congratulated. Without a total team effort, the boys would have never achieved the prosperity they did. After missing last year, Matt Cameron played with fire and ended up receiving the "Most Offensive" player award. Andy Boyea was given the "Sportsmanship" award for handling intense pressure from not only game situations but also from the opposing players. Junior Matt Haluch was named "Most Improved" player for being the newest valuable asset to the team. The "Most Valuable" player award was given to Augie Calheno who anchored the team's defense throughout the season.

WESTERN MASS. SOCCER

Determination (di-ter-mə-na-shen) — firm or fixed purpose. There is not a better word that could be used to describe the attitudes of the 1991 Lady Lions' soccer team. Their "fixed purpose" was to prove that they were worth the audience's attention. For the twelve graduating seniors it was their last time to play together and their last time to go for the title as a unit. But the focus should not only be placed on the seniors because if it wasn't for the juniors and sophomores, the success of the season would have never been achieved.

Early season wins of 8-0 over Westfield and Cathedral showed Ludlow as the team to beat. With a final regular season of 16-0-2 this is the first Lady Lions' team to be "A" Division Champions two years consecutively. It is also the first Lady Lions team to have an undefeated record. In the Western Mass. finals Ludlow met arch rival Cathedral. This time the Lions wouldn't let the Panthers get the best of them. In a back and forth game the Lions came out victors, 4-3, with not only the Western Mass. crown but also a true sense of pride. Although they lost a well-fought battle for a trip to the semi-finals, their pride still remained.

As individuals the team members also left their marks on Ludlow history. Players receiving "All New England" titles were senior Stephanie Chmura, team M.V.P., and junior Erica Robbins. "All Western Mass." first team honors were given to seniors Katie Clifford, Bonnie Manchester, Pamela Richards, and Joy Rodrigo. Seniors Kathy Ciempa and Alicia Nepomuceno, team pick for the "Sportsmanship Award," were placed on the second team for "All Western Mass." "Most Improved Player," junior Diane Nascimento and senior Aimee LaBrecque were voted "All League." Stephanie Chmura with 98 career goals and Katie Clifford with 31 career shutouts both go down in Ludlow history for breaking the two previous records in those categories. Although the 1991 season has ended, the records broke and success achieved will always be remembered.

Experience is the key to good football - unfortunately, this year's team had virtually none. Although "there is no compensation for lack of experience in football," says head coach Carl Ericksberg, the seniors helped keep the team's attitude high, despite a disappointing 0-11 season.

Throughout the trying season, Mario Rodrigues and Chris Dynak, especially, could be seen rallying the sometimes reluctant fans. Nonetheless, the team saw some "great football" and gained the experience it will need for future years. The high point of the season was by far the traditional Thanksgiving Day varsity game against Palmer. The Lions failed to come out victorious, but they were considerably improved since the season opener.

The 1991-1992 LHS varsity football team may have started out inexperienced, but it finished ready to tackle next year's competition.

Charity Begins at Home

"It is our duty as students who have been given so much to give something back to our community." President of Student Council Susie Martins expressed the view that many students and educators share the belief that it is our duty to give our efforts to society.

Many of the organizations at Ludlow High School also hold this belief. Amnesty International is an organization dedicated to the struggle for human rights. The students who are members of this group write letters to other governments urging them to free those who have been imprisoned because of their political or religious beliefs. "It is necessary for everyone, including students, to be aware that they themselves are able to have some bearing on the fate of their own world," says Elizabeth Fonseca, president of Amnesty. She feels strongly that students should become involved with social issues.

Student Council also involves itself in the community through such activities as Jump Rope for Heart. This year the Student Council also sponsored a blood drive for the American Red Cross. Over 50 units of blood were donated by the students who participated in the drive. In addition, Student Council also encouraged students to donate food and clothes to the Survival Center in Ludlow.

S.A.D.D., Students Against Driving Drunk, is constantly attempting to make the public aware of the dangers of alcohol. Through programs such as D.A.R.E. (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) and Peer Education, Ludlow students start teaching younger children about the dangers of drugs and alcohol, providing role models and information.

Pro Merito is also dedicated to community service. The group's motto "Noblesse Oblige" means that those who are given much must give in return. This year, Pro Merito members not only participated in the Phone-a-Thon for the American Heart Association but also sold Brightside Angels at Christmas time to help dysfunctional families and disturbed children.

High School students feel it fortunate. As future politicians, nurses, salespeople, educators, our community service is crucial to harmony and

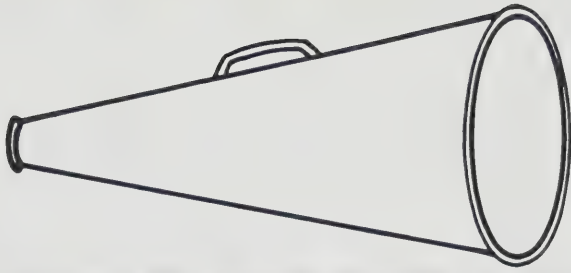

It is obvious that many Ludlow is important to help those less fortunate. As future politicians, nurses, salespeople, educators, our community service is crucial to harmony and equality for all.

CHEERLEADERS

Much hard work is put into the cheers and routines that people sometimes take for granted. The work of the cheerleaders began at practices held in the summer of 1991. Some of the girls were able to attend a cheerleading summer camp for four days at Amherst College through the Universal Cheerleading Association.

During the school year, the cheerleaders practiced intensely. Their work paid off when they competed for the first time and scored high at two statewide cheerleading competitions. The girls braved the weather and withstood extreme heat, rain, sleet, and even snow to bring their spirit to the varsity games of football, boys' basketball, and girls' and boys' soccer.

The cheerleaders were full of school pride and emotion. They rejoiced with the girls' varsity soccer team when they won the Division I Western Mass. finals; they cried with the varsity boys' soccer team when they lost in the same tournament. The cheerleaders also provided entertainment at the school's Booster Day pep rally, and fall sports' assembly.

Through various fund-raisers, the girls acquired enough money to purchase new uniforms, sweaters, jackets, and pom-poms. The squad also put together scrapbooks for all the senior athletes, helped out at a wrestling tournament held at Ludlow High School, and worked at many "Save Our Schools" (S.O.S.) benefits.

When asked what her best memory as a cheerleader has been, Deena DesRosiers, the only senior on this year's team, responded, "There are so many good memories, it's hard to choose, but the one that stands out the most is our time together at camp . . . José, José . . . so hot, hot, Hot!"

BOYS' BASKETBALL

▼Forward Jason Knowles dribbles the ball down the court.

The Ludlow High School varsity basketball team ended the 1991-1992 season with an overall record of 4-16. This year the team was coached by first time head coach William Kolodziey. The height of five players on the team added to its strength; however, a major weakness of the team was the inexperience of its players. Sophomore twins Jason and Mitchell Knowles led the team. Jason, who averaged 16 points per game, had his best game in the playoffs when he scored 28 points.

In the playoff games, the varsity team was seeded 15th out of 15 teams. In its playoff game versus Agawam, Ludlow was down by 20 at the half, then made an incredible comeback and lost by four as time ran out. The team shows much potential for the future. It lost only three seniors to graduation: Chris Cavallo, John Driscoll, and Jason Martowski.

Varsity players who received awards were: Jason Knowles for leading rebounder and Mitch Knowles for Most Valuable Player. Chris Cavallo received an award for best defensive player and John Driscoll received the "Lion Award." The Coach's Award this year went to Jason Martowski.

The junior varsity basketball team with a record of 1-19 was coached by Fred Glanville. The team had the height, but lacked the experience needed to have a winning season. J.V. players who received awards were Keith Nunes as the "Most Improved Player" and Mike Lantaigne, the team's leading scorer, as M.V.P.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

▲Aimee LaBrecque not only wins the battle of the faces but also the battle for the ball.

The 1992 Ludlow Lions girls' basketball team enjoyed a memorable season under the leadership of senior tri-captains Kathy Ciempa, Aimee LaBrecque, and Pamela Richards. The girls went down in Ludlow girls' basketball history as the first team to host a tournament game. They were also the first girls' team to win a Western Mass. Division 1 tournament game. Although it was an open tournament, their record of 11-7 would have honored them with a trip to the tournament regardless. After playing the full regular season in Division 2, the girls were placed in the Division 1 tournament due to school size. They proved their worthiness by beating Central, pre-season rivals, but bowed to number-one-seeded Amherst. The Lions' offense was led by senior Emily Hitchcock, leading scorer, and freshman Andrea Ruest. Many break-away opportunities were created by the quickness of senior guards Aimee LaBrecque and Pamela Richards and junior guards Lori Cennamo and Erica Robbins.

Voted by the team, Lauren Serwatka, leading rebounder, was "Most Improved Player" and Kathy Ciempa, leader of steals and second leading rebounder, "Most Valuable Player." Coach Len Phelon awarded junior Lori Cennamo with the "Coach's Award" for her "outstanding attitude and effort." All-League honors were awarded to Kathy Ciempa and Pamela Richards. The girls had a very exciting season with twelve of their twenty games decided by just a seven point differential.

The girls' JV basketball team also had a record-breaking season with the best girls' JV record ever 18-3. Awards given out were Amber Ericksberg — "Most Valuable Player," Kathy Drozdowski — "Most Improved Player," and Debra Carr — "Coach's Award."

For the first time ever Ludlow had a freshman girls' basketball team which had a record of 4-8. Awards given out were Desiree LaBrecque — "Most Valuable Player," Rebecca Small — "Most Improved Player," and Tracey Dilley — "Coach's Award."

HOCKEY

This year's varsity hockey team achieved a record of 9-10-1, which is excellent since many of the opposing teams were strong.

The team's highlight came when it defeated the higher division Westfield High School by a score of 7-4. The team made an outstanding effort in its game against Drury High School. After trailing 6-1, Ludlow made an incredible comeback to tie the game.

Sophomore Nathan Torretti had an admirable record of fourteen goals and five assists, and junior Joel Page had thirteen goals and eight assists, which helped him to be chosen for the Coaches' All-League team for the Fay Division. Freshman Mario Morton forced people to take notice of his talent with his eleven goals and seventeen assists. Senior goalie Joel Crinella had two shutouts this year while freshman Corey Tomlinson had three.

The 1993 hockey team should be a formidable opponent as many of this year's players are expected to return.

The Ludlow High School ski team, coached by math teacher James Lonczak, had an excellent year this year! The team consisted of nine players: five seniors, two juniors, one sophomore and one freshman. Rick Giverson and Ron Martel were co-captains of the team.

All the practices and meets including the Western Massachusetts games were held at Berkshire East.

The team consistently placed within the top six out of twenty teams. The teams consisted of 160 skiers. The team's best event was the slalom, the Ludlow skiers coming in first, second, and third places.

Jay Gershowitz was the only one to place in each meet. Ron Martel won the best skier trophy. Rick Giverson and Ron Martel also participated in the Winter Baystate games. Overall best times by the seniors became the strength of the team. According to Coach Lonczak, the team's main weakness was "lack of depth."

As a result of these factors, the Ludlow High School ski team scored more points this year than the last two years combined.

WRESTLING

The 1991 Lions' wrestling team had a successful season with a best-ever record of 11-3. The Lions started off on a high note by winning the Longmeadow Early Bird Classic Tournament. First place winners were seniors Jason Guinipero, Jody Moffett, Dan Pivin, and Mark Pszeniczny. Tournament M.V.P. Mike Ice also placed first. Placing second were seniors Wayne Kapinos and John Mikaelian and freshman Tony Davis. In the Agawam Christmas tournament and also in Ludlow's first annual New Year's Tournament, Ludlow received third place.

This year the Western Mass Division I tournament was hosted by Ludlow. In front of his home crowd Mark Pszeniczny (125 lb. weight class) won the Western Mass crown for the second consecutive year. In the 135 lb. weight class, Wayne Kapinos placed third as did Dan Pivin in the 171 lb. weight class. Tony Luis placed fourth in Western Mass and fifth in the states for the 119 lb. weight class.

Tony Luis received the team's "Most Improved Player" award. Jason Guinipero received the "Coach's Award" while Ray Antaya received the "Best First Year" award. With sixteen pins this year, Mark Pszeniczny received the "Most Improved Player" award for the third straight year.

JUMP FOR HEART

In March, Student Council held the fifth annual Jump Rope Heart in the school gymnasium. Students were asked to help the American Heart Association by collecting pledges for and jumping for three hours. This year approximately one hundred and fifteen students raised three thousand dollars.

Student Council advisor, Mr. Brian Bylicki, said, "Jump Rope for Heart is a good charity. Taking part in Student Council means taking part in the community. It is the responsibility of Student Council members to take part in the community."

Susie Martins, Student Council president and coordinator of Jump Rope for Heart, said, "It's a chance for the whole student body to get involved in community service. The kids like to get involved."

ARTS PROGRAMS PRAISED

This was a year of many firsts for the Ludlow High School fine arts program. Art, choral music, and instrumental music all had an outstanding year.

The highlight of the art program under Mr. Bernard Burns and Mrs. Maureen Cotti was the Spring Art Exhibit which took place on May 27th and 28th. The show hosted over 700 people breaking all past attendance records. John Vaz became the first student ever to immortalize Mr. Cavallo in clay by creating a thirteen inch statue of the principal. Other firsts for the art program were the self-portraits which Mr. Burns shrunk to fit the art show invitations.

The choir also had an exciting year. Under the direction of first year high school teacher Mrs. Debi (Salli) Ferrendino, the choir learned to adjust to a new director and a new schedule. At the beginning of the year, six of the twelve choral students who auditioned for Western Mass District choir were accepted. Three of these students — Amy Carlson, Dan Cincone, and David Costa — made the All-State choir. Because of the small number of vocalists, the group had to work hard to compensate for the lack of choir members. In December, the chorale appeared on a Christmas program produced by Channel 40. The group also participated in what was billed as "Ludlow's Largest Concert."

The band, like art and choir, also had a busy year. The highlight of its year was the gold medal which it won at Agawam High School for competing in the Massachusetts Inter-scholastic Conductors' Association competition. Miss Cynthia Koch, the band director, helped put together Ludlow's Largest Concert. The middle-school bands, concert choir, chorale, and the middle-school choir all took part in this amazing concert, which highlighted music posers. All in all, "every performance by the band this year was excellent."

◀The battle of the sexes was continuous throughout the show. Joelen Hackett and friends proved that "You can't get a man with a gun."

▼Part 1 hosts Tami Dennette and Kelli Moutinho had it tougher than they bargained for. They not only had to introduce the acts: they also had to deal with the stubborn bag ladies who were going to see the show no matter what.

◀Cristina M. Gomes and Christina Gomes are just two of the four bag ladies who insisted on disturbing the action many times because they wanted to see the show. After being ushered out twice, the ladies finally took their "SeatsPlease" by bringing in their own seat, (stolen from an MC's car), and putting it on the floor for their front row seat.

▼Wedgie Fever welcomed judges "Betty Crocker" — Tanya Sa, "Sara Lee" — Maria Barroso, "Mr. Jock Strap" — Dave Nally, "Daisy" — Lisa Malaquias, "Beulah-Mae" — Alice Mendes. This skit portrayed a game show where the contestants got a "wedge" for each question answered wrong.

The varsity baseball team ended its season with a seven win and thirteen loss record. The team's main weakness was its inexperience. Only three seniors — Chris Cavallo, Mike Misiasek, and Joe Queiroga — who were varsity players last year returned for the 1992 season.

The team, inexperienced as it was, came away with some great wins and exciting games, including a seventh inning rally against Chicopee that ended with a 4-3 win for Ludlow. The team's best batter was junior Mark Matthieu who finished the season with twenty-five hits, five doubles, and nineteen runs batted in.

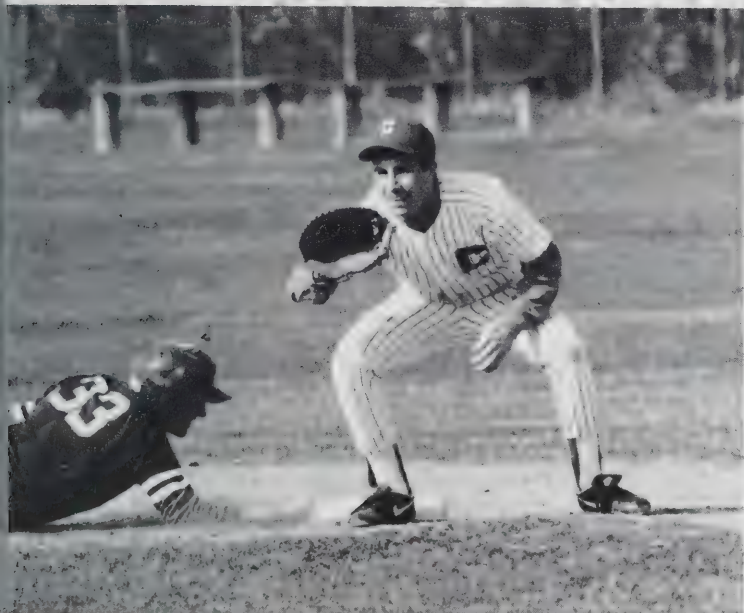

Coach Lou Casagrande is quite proud of his team. Five of the players made the All-league team. They were senior Matthieu, junior Matt Haluch a designated hitter, senior Chris Cavallo in the outfield, and junior pitcher George Mateus. Coach Casagrande sees great potential for next year's team with the majority of the team returning.

Coach Brian Bylicki led his junior varsity team to a 6-13-1 record out of league and a 5-3 record in league. Coach Bylicki described the season as a "slow start" but then things "picked up." Freshman Steve Marino, who had the most at bats (62) and a pitching record of 3-3, won the Chris Kudla Award. Some other outstanding players were Marc Carneiro with the best batting average of .367 and Ray Antaya with 13 stolen bases and 1 homerun. Ron Vice led the pitching staff with a 3-2 record.

GOLF

The Ludlow High School golf team, under the coaching of Larry Holdsworth, finished the season with an impressive 10-0 record and the title of Valley Wheel Champs. This was made possible by strong performances from returning members and rookies. The golf team's 14-2 out-of-league record was a remarkable improvement over last year's record and demonstrated what a well organized team can accomplish.

Though not an easy season, the players worked hard both as individuals and as a team to go on to the Western Mass. finals and finish in fourth place. Freshman Justin LaBier showed that he knows his game by making the All League team during his first year. The more experienced Matt Cameron and Pat Rickson both made the All Western Mass. team. Pat Rickson's outstanding performance throughout the whole season led him to the State Individuals Tournament. The highlight for the team and Coach Holdsworth were the two victories against rival Minnechaug.

All the members displayed unity and dedication to lead the group to an extraordinary season. Coach Holdsworth said, "It was a team effort all season." He felt that the players deserved the recognition that they received. Next year's team is expected to do well with returning experienced players and hopeful newcomers on the team.

SOFTBALL

▼ Amber Ericksburg waits attentively to catch the ball at home plate.

The softball team under the coaching of Len Phelon has steadily improved its record since the seniors' freshman season. Its present record now stands at seven wins and thirteen losses. Phelon has described this year as a "rebuilding" year. With Kathy Ciempa as the only starting senior, the underclassmen have had their chance to shine. Junior Christine Cardinal hit a home run for the team, while junior Allison Dorval anchored the infield defensively. Leading batters were senior Kathy Ciempa, freshman Andrea Ruest, and junior Debbie Carr. At the annual awards banquet the Most Valuable Player award was given to Kathy Ciempa, the Most Improved Player award to Ania Pielecha, and the Coach's Award to Carrie Melbourne.

The JV season has been described as "confusing" by Coach Nancy Boyle. However, with the help of volunteer assistant coach Diane Erickberg, the team survived the season. Every day players were switching teams with freshmen moving up to JV and JV players moving up to varisty. This led to many position changes so that no one player had the opportunity to improve her position. The awards at the end of the season were Most Valuable Player — Sonia Sousa, Coach's Award — Beth Szemela, and Most Improved Player — Emily Gomes.

The freshman team was a new addition to the 1992 spring season. A 3-9-1 record was a respectable one for this inexperienced team which had only three players who had ever played softball before the season began. Also, this team had the dubious honor of playing a Division 1 schedule. Coach Susan Stachelek says her team "practiced hard" and "got along well."

All three coaches are looking forward to next year's season and to the improvement that all hope to see.

GIRLS' TENNIS

The Ludlow High School girls' tennis team finished the season with a 9-5 record and placed first in its league. Although the spring weather was not cooperative, the girls endured cold and precipitation for a winning season.

Doubles partners Alicia Nepomuceno and Aimee LaBrecque, both seniors, improved their skills each game and made the Western Mass. All-League team. Jennifer Jayma made an outstanding effort in singles, as did freshman Melissa Pollard, who has great potential.

BOYS' TENNIS

This year's boys' tennis team is considered by many to be the best boys' tennis team that Ludlow has ever had. The team finished its season with a 10-4 record; however, even three of its losing games were only lost by the score of 3-2!

Coach Lee Kenworthy considers Evan Gaudreau and Alfonso Torres, who both had records of 13-1, to be two of the four best players he has ever coached. The other two were the Mayotte brothers, who went on to national standing in tennis.

This season is also the perfect ending to Coach Kenworthy's twenty-five year career as a tennis coach. He has seen the players mature in every aspect of their playing and believes that this season's success was due to the effort of the entire team.

TRACK & FIELD

Though the Ludlow High School track teams do not get quite enough recognition for their effort and hard work, the team members do indeed shine in their individual achievements on the track as well as on the field.

The varsity girls' track and field team had a fair season with a record of one win and eight losses. This may not look impressive, but the individual performances more than made up for the overall team record. Senior captains Jen Holley and Kathy Ziemba along with sophomore Sandy Pinto made it to the Western Massachusetts Championships in the shot put, high jump, and the 100 meter sprint respectively. These three later went on to do very well in the state championships.

The varsity boys' track team ended the season with a record of two wins and five losses. Though better than last year's record, the team was not able to achieve its goal of a winning season. Veteran members and present captains Tony Torpes, John Michalski, Keith Roxo, Lee Tatro, John Vaz, and Jeff McCarthy helped the newcomers during the rigorous competition. The highlight of the season was Lee Tatro's impressive seventh place finish at the Western Massachusetts championships.

Though the team's records were not exactly the strong point of the spring season, their dedication and hard work have provided Ludlow with a strong nucleus for next year's track and field season.

FINAL FESTIVITIES

Senior week began on Monday June 1 with the mystery trip to Cold Brook in Barre, Massachusetts. Despite the rain, the seniors' last trip was a special one.

The following day, the senior class gathered in the auditorium for Class Day. Here, Susie Martins's State of the School address received a standing ovation from the Class of 1992. Jody Moffett, salutatorian, gave his address, and members of the Executive Board read the class histories. Valedictory editors Susan Podadowski and Kerri Mathisen read the class ballot, and Mrs. Suzanne Kelley presented the National Honor Society with gold stoles and read the Top Ten. The morning ended with a presentation of awards to seniors by Mr. James Cavallo.

On Wednesday, June 3 the juniors presented the seniors with their final assembly at Ludlow High School. Senior Assembly included the traditional handing of letters from the seniors to their parents and the passing of the peace pipe. "Now and Then" was the title of the slide show that featured the seniors' baby and senior pictures. Class advisors were recognized and the yearbook editor, Jodi Psoter, told of the progress of the yearbook. Some junior girls broke up the speeches with their rendition of the Senior Show's "I'm Too Sexy," though it was far from the original. Ludlow also received a visit from Wayne's World's Wayne and Garth, seniors Chris Cavallo and Jason Martowski. The assembly ended with a beautiful candlelight ceremony in which the juniors, dressed in prom dresses and tuxedos, surrounded the seniors. This tradition left many students, parents, and faculty in tears.

Senior Week concluded with graduation on Thursday night at Springfield's Symphony Hall. As the seniors marched in to the rhythm of the concert band's "Pomp and Circumstance," their eyes revealed that they knew that this was the end. A little humor entered the program through Mr. Russell Mawdsley's recap of the Wayne's World at Senior Assembly. Denise Malvinni read her Class valedictorian address as did Class entino. Diplomas were presented amidst cheers from individual parents. The graduates proceeded out of the hall.

"It is now our turn to make things better; to halt and to reverse the ongoing selfish tide on which many people in this country have been riding for the past twelve years. The reason, I believe, we can overcome the problems which face our society is that we have been given the means to do so. Namely, we have an education; we have our minds; we have spirit; we have compassion; and because of these things, we have Hope . . . It is up to our generation to remove the barriers that separate people of different races. We are citizens of America, so in a sense we are one."

Denise Malvinni
Valedictorian

▲Superintendent of Schools, Dr. James E. Tierney tells the audience that 85% of the class will be going on to further education.

"What is the one thought that is crossing the minds of most of us tonight as we receive our diplomas? The answer, I believe, deals with the topic of success. We are all wondering if we will succeed in the paths we are choosing to follow . . . By definition, to succeed is to achieve one's goal. Therefore, we can each consider ourselves successful if we meet the goal we have established for ourselves as we leave Ludlow High School . . . Many people in our generation, however, also feel that success is measured by the amount of money they make and the number of goods they have . . . We are at a point in our lives when we have choices to make. We need to have our own definition of success. We do not need to have everything money can buy, but we should look to the special, inexpensive things that life has to offer and appreciate them."

Barbara Fiorentino
Class President

"As I washed my hands I looked up and saw — yes, these great words of wisdom were indeed written on a bathroom wall — the phrase 'Where are the paths your heroes pave?' . . . Traditionally, we have all been taught, at one time in our lives, to pattern our lives after people whom we admire, that is, our heroes. Heroes can be almost anyone, a famous personality, a favorite teacher, a parent, or even an older brother or sister . . . I would suggest to you that, this evening, it is you who are the heroes. It is you whom we look up to. You have persevered and worked and endured and, most of all, accomplished what you set out to do. And heroes you are, not just for your teachers, family and friends, but for yourselves as well. Each of you has reached inside of yourself and found the courage and strength to make it through the difficult times, and you have found the compassion and generosity to help each other when it was necessary . . . As each of you go forward in life, in whatever capacity, remember the hero in yourself and remember that it is you who paves the paths of our heroes."

1992 Class Trips

SENIOR: This year the seniors traveled to Toronto, Canada, for a three-day, two-night trip. Among the popular tourist sites they saw were the Skydome, where the American League Toronto Blue Jays play their home games, and Niagara Falls. Held during spring vacation from April 20-22, the trip to Canada proved enjoyable for all who attended.

JUNIOR: The juniors enjoyed two days in Newport, Rhode Island for their class trip held May 8 and 9. The students were given the opportunity to tour some of the mansions that have made Newport so popular, including The Breakers which is the Vanderbilt summer home, and Jackie Kennedy Onassis' childhood home. The juniors also spent much of their time shopping "downtown."

SOPHOMORE: The sophomore class had its chance for fun on June 15 when it traveled to Great Escape Amusement Park in the Lake George area of New York. The sophomores who attended felt that the trip was exciting and successful.

FRESHMAN: June 15 was also the date for the traditional freshman class trip to Hampton Beach for the typical beach activities: swimming, sunning, shopping, and the boardwalk. The students who chose to participate in the class trip enjoyed themselves as have the classes before them.

Under the guidance of Mr. Larrivee the students in Model Congress came up with a safety bill which required that air bags and shoulder harnesses be provided in all cars. The bill, sponsored by Jody Moffett and Susie Martins, successfully received the votes of the convention participants and it will be enacted in three years.

The convention, held at AIC on January 9, was attended by representatives from almost thirty high schools.

This year's Student Council, under advisor Mr. Bylicki, provided many services for both the community and the school. On "Dress Down Day" (October 31), teachers paid to come to school dressed comfortably in jeans and sweatshirts. Many Student Council members participated in the Slave Auction (November 14); Mr. Bylicki was sold for $40.00 and Barbara Fiorentino for $60.00. Valentine's Day was celebrated with something sweet. The candy grams were delivered by the lion.

Efforts to become more involved with the community received much response from LHS students. Many donated to the food and clothing drive for Ludlow's shelter during the Christmas season. Students also chose to participate in the blood drive and supported the American Heart Association by holding a Jump Rope for Heart (March 27).

Along with providing activities to benefit the community, Student Council sponsored students by funding the Mullins Award, Model Congress, and Girls' State.

AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL

Amnesty International, headed by senior Elizabeth Fonseca, had a successful year. This year the club consisted of more members than in past years which contributed to its overall success. At each meeting letters were written to governments, such as those in South America and South Africa, where people were being detained. In a friendly, non-biased way that did not accuse or blame the government, these letters pleaded for the release of the prisoners.

Amnesty International is a world-wide movement which works unbiassly for the release of prisoners of conscience — men and women detained for their beliefs, color, race, ethnic origin, sex, religion, or language, as long as they have not used or advocated violence. Amnesty is against torture and executions in all cases without reservation and it advocates fair and prompt trials for all political prisoners.

VOCATIONAL COLLABORATIVE

The Lower Pioneer Valley Educational Collaborative (LPVAC) provides vocational training that Ludlow High School is not able to provide. Right now eight communities send students to the vocational training program which is housed at Westover Air Force Base.

Each student spends a half-day at his home school and the other half at the vocational school. Currently about thirty Ludlow students participate in this hands on experience. The classes at Westover provide the student with 15 credits or the equivalent of three classes at the high school.

Vocational training is offered in the fields of art, allied health, carpentry, fashion, food services, graphic arts, landscaping/horticulture, and metal shop.

Seven of these vocational students are seniors. They are Mike Banas, Rui DaCruz, Joe Fernandes, Frank Halama, Tony Mileskie, Jody Surprenant, and Tim Zych.

▲Jen Rouleau and John Vaz, co-editors of the 1993 yearbook, spent many hours on all sections absorbing all they could about how to run a yearbook. (They also provided the design for the cover.)

▲Many of the photographic captions used in this book are the work of Debbie Canoa.

▲Spending hours in room 217 each week, Tom Jaracz added the finishing touches to lay-outs and the captions, and he worked on the cover.

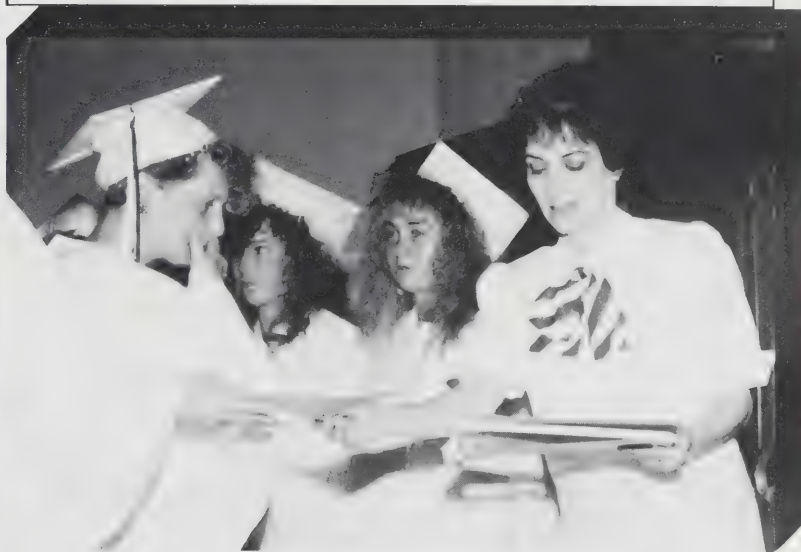

▼Jodi Psoter, editor-in-chief, supervised every facet of the yearbook from layout to advertising to proofreading to sales.

Special thanks go to the following people for all their help with Breaking the Mold: Claire Sygiel our Herff-Jones Representative, Greniers Photographers for all the group and sports pictures, Walt Steinmetz Photography for the candid pictures, the LHS faculty for their help in identifying people on a moment's notice, our advisor Mrs. Suzanne Kelley who spent countless hours making sure the pages were perfect, and all of the students both on and off the staff who contributed their part to Breaking the Mold.

Jodi Psoter

▲Pam Pyzocha took time to learn the ins and outs of being a yearbook staff member.

▲Kathy Ciempa dedicated much of her free time to the yearbook, writing a majority of the sports copy and captions.

▲Brenda Goncalves, a much needed copy writer, used her journalism skills to write for the yearbook.

▲Whenever there was typing or clerical work to be done, Tamara Thomas was the one to whom the staff turned.

▲Cathy Carlos typed copy and redrew layouts as her schedule permitted.

▲From advertising solicitation to general yearbook work, Kara Kolodziej was a valued staff member.

▲Journalism veterans Sue Podsadowski and Kerri Mathisen contributed by writing much of the copy.

FOR ALL TIME
by Joni Cossaboom

As I look into faces I once knew,
I see the person I once was.
I realize these times are past,
And I must go on.
I raise my hand to block the sun,
But in truth,
I am waving good-bye;
To all my friends, and the ones I've lost.

I look back in time to smiling children's faces;
Their smiles are full of hope for the future.
The future is now; the smiles are ours.
We're setting our sights high for accomplishments.
In time we may see our dreams fade or flourish,
But our memories will linger in our minds.
And our dreams and hopes will remain
For all time.

After the Gulf War, President George Bush's approval rating of 89% was one of the highest in history. However, domestic problems, especially the economy, caused his rating to drop as low as 44% before the New Hampshire Primary. The people of that state sent the President a message with their vote. While President Bush won, his opponent, Pat Buchanan, received over 40% of the vote.

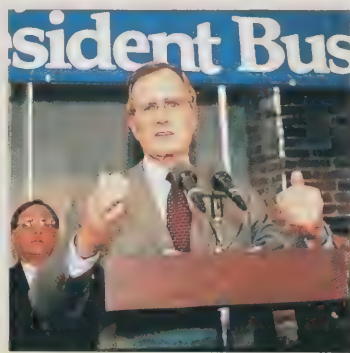

- Former Massachusetts Senator, Paul Tsongas, led the Democratic candidates in New Hampshire. Former California Governor, Jerry Brown, came from last place in New Hampshire to tie Tsongas in the Maine caucuses.
- The Democrats waited for "Super Tuesday" to determine a clear-cut presidential contender.
- Last year, 25 million people were unemployed at some time and the number of homeless Americans grew at an alarming rate.
- In 1991, retailers experienced the lowest sales growth in three decades.
- After the initial elation about the Gulf War victory, some Americans came to feel that the war ended too soon and Saddam Hussein still posed a threat. In November of 1991, the last of the 714 burning Kuwaiti oil wells was capped off as the people of Kuwait struggled to rebuild their homeland.

However, Bush did come away with an agreement by Japan to open a $6 billion government computer market to foreign firms. Japanese auto companies also agreed to ask their dealers to sell a token number of additional U.S. cars. • Yugoslavia broke into a bitter civil war on June 25, 1991, when the
